THEY SAY

—That when the prodigal son was broke, he said "I will arise and go home to my father" but when a dingley gets broke, he says "I'll arise and go to Uncle Moses" (pawnbroker.)

—That a liar is a man who arrives at an early hour and attempts to explain to his wife where he's been.

—That a man is wise who never takes his troubles too seriously.

—That if po' chops get any higher there'll surely be a panic among the cullud race.

—That a diabolical plan was laid to catch a prominent preacher in a rooming house but the divine "smelt the rat."

—That talk is cheap when it's about yourself but oftentimes expensive when about the other fellow. Preach on brother, preach on.

—That it isn't so hard to do right but in making up your mind is where the tug comes.

—That some people don't care how they get their money, just so they get it.

—That a colored sister who has already filled her basement with coal was heard to remark "I was cold last winter but I sho won't be dis winter."

—That a young dude who has been leaving his work every evening before quitting time told his boss that he was getting his feet treated by a Chiropodist. The employer replied "well get them fixed up good because you will be needing good feet to walk yourself up a new job after this week."

On Life's Journey.

I do not say we ought to be happier as we grow older, but we ought to be calmer, knowing better what life is, and looking forward to another, which we believe to be a reality though we cannot tell what it means.—Exchange.

Common Gain.

The cause of freedom is identified with the destinies of humanity, and in whatever part of the world it gains ground by and by, it will be a common gain to all those who desire it.—Kossuth.

Learn From Mistakes.

If you make a mistake don't look back at it long. Take the reason of the thing into your own mind, and then look forward. Mistakes are lessons of wisdom.—Hugh White.

News to Many.

The jaw of the shark furnishes the best watchmaker's oil. In each shark is found about half a pint.
